REPORT

An intraclass seminar for FYBA history students was conducted based on the syllabus of Paper I – History of Modern India and Paper II – History of Mumbai. In the months of September and October 2023. The seminar aimed to encourage self-learning of the syllabus topics. It was also intended to provide an opportunity of public speaking for the students and overcome their stage fear. Students chose the topic of presentation from the syllabus. They prepared PowerPoint presentations and presented them in front of the class of the respective faculty members. Topics such as the Revolt of 1857, Partition of India, Cotton Textile Industries of Bombay and Koli communities of Mumbai were covered in the Seminar. The faculty gave their feedback and asked questions related to the presentation. In this process, the students learnt comprehension skills. It also gave them confidence to use basic computer technology. It also boosted their analytical thinking. Students presented in groups, which was an exercise in team building.
