Analysis of feedback on the curriculum for the academic year 2022-23

An analysis of feedback on the Political Science curriculum for the academic year 2022-23 was conducted, which involved soliciting opinions from multiple stakeholders, including students, alumni, peer teachers, and industry/employers persons. The feedback received was subsequently analyzed and discussed during the Board of Studies (BOS) meeting held on April 10, 2023.

The following points were discussed in the BOS meeting based on the suggestion in the feedback analysis

During the meeting, several suggestions were put forward, and the board members duly acknowledged and deliberated upon them.

- In light of the recently introduced National Education Policy (NEP), the board requested the development of a draft syllabus that aligns with its guidelines, with a particular emphasis on promoting interdisciplinarity, fostering skill development, encouraging employability, and upholding professionalism.
- The board expressed satisfaction with the Value Added Course (VAC) on 'Understanding Human Rights,' having 2 credits that were introduced in the academic year 2020-21 and implemented successfully in 2021-22 and 2022-23.
