REPORT

The department of Botany in association with Pavo nature club of the college organized a talk by Dr. Viyaya Chakravarty on Wild Forgotten Foods. She started the session with wishing students good health by eating healthy. She mentioned that nature has provided everything in plenty only we need to appreciate them by eating. She mentioned about the nutritive values of wild vegetables and shared some recipes which would retain their nutritive values. The session was interactive. After the session she inaugurated the exhibition of wild vegetable which was showcased by our students. She appreciated the work done by the students in promoting tradition conservation practices and promote biodiversity as well as sustainability.
