Report

The IQAC of Ramniranjan Jhunjhunwala College organized an online workshop on 'Designing Question Paper using Bloom's Taxonomy' for the teaching staff on October 12, 2022 at 3 pm using zoom platform. The resource person for the event Professor Dr Nandini Vaz spoke at length about the manner in which students can be evaluated at different levels of learning as per Bloom's taxonomy. She stated that in the formative and summative assessment multiple modes of evaluation can be used to cater to the diverse types of students. She emphasized the significance of clearly defining the objectives in the programme outcome and course outcome of the discipline which will help in designing the modes of evaluation. Different mode of formative assessment like open book exam, MCQs, student presentation, assignment, portfolio, case study, gobbet, debate, concept maps, poster, chart, problem based learning, practicals, field based study and mini project activities could be used to evaluate the learning output of the students. In the summative mode of assessment the question paper should be designed to assess the six levels of learning viz. remembering, understanding, applying, analyzing, evaluating, and creating. She gave examples from humanities, science and commerce for designing higher order of learning. The session was extremely useful followed by an interactive session. Ninety teaching faculty participated in the online capacity building workshop.
