The Beauty For A Better Life Programme was established by L'Oréal India in 2009, with an aim to create livelihood opportunities for young women from disadvantaged sections of society. The programme trains them in beauty services, providing them a means to gain employment and sustenance, thereby improving their quality of life. Beauty For A Better Life consists of two agendas; Beautician training, and Beauty Advisor (BA) training. While the former tutors and prepares women for a role in the salon industry, the latter coaches them for role in the beauty retail industry. The curriculum, which is developed by L'Oréal trainers, includes 2 months of classroom training followed by a mandatory 3-month internship in a professional salon, before graduating. This provides the women the opportunity and confidence to work in beauty salons or start their own enterprise.
