All great

Give us farewell

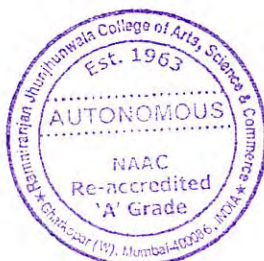

The course content is very much advanced and is with the market demand. This will help students to groom for industry

NA

Industry experts Or recent year students should be called to share knowledge on real based industry.

I think teaching a technology as a stand alone thing is not very helpful. Rather we should explain students how different technologies work together intricately and how they are and can be used in different ways thus giving them a better understanding of all the moving parts of the system

Could add bug-bounty or cracking CTFs as an alternative to Industrial internship for Information Security domain. It is kind of equally worth.

No, it quite good

Current curriculum is good according to the covid situation but practical knowledge is not possible as every student is not having good quality network and they are having machine to practice their theory knowledge.

No comment

Need to include new technology in the curriculum, data Science knowledge is good but isn't everything
