Project Name: PRUTHVI - Defining Nature

Location: Yeoor Hills (Thane)

Date: 21st July, 2019

Time: 8am-12pm

Students benefited: 25 rotaractors

15 NCC cadets

Total: 40

The motive of the PRUTHVI project was to take up social responsibility towards the environment and make efforts to preserve them. For this, the saplings of mango, guava, neem, jamun, and banyan were planted by the participants. The members of the club were accompanied by the NCC unit of the RJ College and Captain PravinNayak for the plantation. The weeds and grass in the whole lawn were cleared, then successfully 100 saplings in 4 hours were planted and subsequently a clean-up drive was undertaken at the same place where everyone tried to collect every plastic bag, wrappers, and bottles. Due to the increasing global warming the roads are getting warmer but the trees would help to lower the temperature of the roads. The plantation would definitely increase the oxygen level in the air and also boost the biodiversity by becoming a natural habitat for wildlife and in order to give some of our contribution in the making of healthy environment. Trees are more cut than they are planted. We being the youth want to take a step towards our social responsibility to take care of our Mother Earth and this tree plantation as a small and valuable contribution was made on behalf of RCRJ.
