To,
The Prinicipal,
Ramniranjan Jhunjhunwala college,
Ghatkopar, Mumbai.

Respected Sir/ Madam,

Paryavaran Dakshata Mandal, established in 1999 is a pioneering NGO in Thane city with subject experts and volunteers in the field of biodiversity, water management, solid waste management, climate change and eco-friendly lifestyle. On a number of occasions we have conducted expert talks, presentations and demonstrations. Our collaboration has been focused mainly on indigenou plants and plantation techniques, Natural color making, wetlands ecosystem, sale of eco-friendly products among many other issues. Additionally, it takes efforts to engage students in environmental research and conservation.

Our association with Ramniranjan Jhunjhunwala college, Ghatkopar for environment awareness goes back to more than a decade now. Paryavaran Dakshata Mandal team was invited by the Department of Botany on 5th March 2023 to conduct awareness session on Holi festival and to make Natural colours. For decades, the college has been celebrating various environmental events with us. These events are designed to sensitize students, teachers and other staff about local and global environmental issues and discuss their role in environment conservation.

The college students have shown noteworthy enthusiasm and we value and appreciate the efforts of college for giving us the opportunity to conduct such workshop in your premises. We hope this association goes long way for various activities in future.

Yours faithfully,

Mr. Vidyadhar Walavalkar

President, Paryavaran Dakshata Mandal,

Thane

REPORT

Holi is a festival of colours a festival which brings unity in diversity. It also teaches human values of being good to one and all, victory of good over evil. Our country is a colourful country depicting unity in diversity. The synthetic colours used in Holi bring allergy, harm the soft skin, harmful to the eyes and the waste water after taking bath is contaminated which pollutes the ground water. Nature has given us many colours and if these colours are used then the festival can be a safe and eco-friendly Holi. A Eco-Friendly Holi Colour Making Workshop was conducted by PAVO Nature club and Department of Botany on 5th March 2023 at 10 am in the first lab. The volunteers from Prayavaran Dakshata Mandal taught the students how to make Holi colours from fruits vegetable peels, seed, discarded flowers, leaves etc. There are some wild trees which bloom only during Holi one such tree is 'Palas' of Flame of the forest botanically known as Bute monosperma which yields a beautiful orange dye when steeped in luke warm water. They taught to make dry Holi colours as well as liquid colours. 46 students across faculty actively participated in the workshop.
