Report on Inaugural function of Botanica and Pavo Nature Club of Department of Botany

Talk by Vaidya Prshant Anant Suru on Ayurveda- Botanical Perspectives

The annual activity of the department of Botany called Botanica and activities of the Nature club of the department called Pavo got a kick start with the informative lecture delivered by Vaidya Shri Suru. After formally inaugurating the student participatory activities of the department, the speaker presented to the students an overview of how ayurveda has come a long way from the ancient form of medicines and treatment to the modern times where its receiving attention at par with allopath and homeopathy systems of medicine. He presented the botanical perspective to ayurvedic system of medicine by describing how important it is to have correct identification of the plant, its adulterants, different preparations of plant arka and kadha and how the plants can be correlated to the disease symptoms that the patient describes. He stated that nature has made no plant that is not useful and there is no ailment which cannot be cured by plants. The lecture generated curiosity among the students who asked many questions at the end of the session and Vaidya Sir patiently answered them all. The session ended with vote of thanks by one of the student participant. 107 students of SY and TY Botany class attended the lecture..
