Unlike every year this year was different. With the pandemic raging across the nation and lectures going online, it was new as well as challenging for us to conduct weeklong activities and competitions smoothly. But through co-operation we achieved success. Though the event's were online the excitement and diligence were unmatched. Participants displayed their skills with utmost perfection and they are the ones responsible for this event's grand success. In all Sixty one students participated in all the six activities. The long discussions prior to the event and adapting to this online world were all worth it in the end seeing the event prosper and become a new and a special achievement for the Political science department. The challenging times bought the best out of all the volunteers as well as the participants. It will be etched in everyone's memories for a long time.
