FINOMENT 5.0

On the day of event firstly the participants need to register themselves. Volunteers were appointed to guide them. Other college student's too participated.

By worshipping Lord Ganesh and Lord Sarasvati. Akash Gupta sir enlighten diyas and singing Vakartunda Mahakaya (Ganesh shlok) we started our event with a positive energy.

In total there were 8 teams.

1st round was Quiz Mania in which there were 3 sub-rounds 1st two round had 20 questions and last round was rapid fire round which had 8 questions.

2nd round was Risk run, a task was given to all and participants need to perform them

3rd round was The Bid Bazar,

The atmosphere at Bid Bazar was electric, with students eagerly vying for items up for bid. The event featured a wide range of interesting and desirable Start ups companies for doing fake auction. The companies were carefully curated to cater to the diverse interests and preferences of the student community, making the bidding process even more enticing. The bidding itself was a thrilling affair, with participants enthusiastically raising their paddles, engaging in friendly competition to win their desired investments. The event was filled with cheers, laughter, and excitement as students eagerly outbid each other to secure their coveted items. We try doing a fantastic job of keeping the momentum going and adding to the overall excitement of the event.

4th round was Trade Villa,

A virtual stock exchange event organized by our college, was an exhilarating experience that brought the world of finance and investment to life in a simulated trading environment. It provided a unique opportunity for students to learn and practice stock trading, gain insights into the intricacies of financial markets, and test their investment strategies in a risk-free virtual setting.

The event was conducted using Presentation and excel sheets that replicated real-world stock exchanges, allowing students to buy and sell virtual stocks, monitor market trends, and make informed investment decisions. Each participant was provided with a virtual portfolio and an initial capital, which they could use to invest in various stocks listed in the simulated stock market.

Trade Villa was designed to be a competitive and dynamic event, with participants actively engaging in buying and selling virtual stocks based on market fluctuations and economic news updates. The event simulated real-time trading, providing a realistic experience that helped students understand the nuances of stock trading, including the concepts of stock valuation, portfolio diversification, risk management, and market timing.

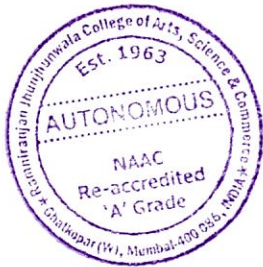

5th was Guess What?,

activity all the group pick one chit and they have to perform that concept.

Instructions given by the leader and according to the judge all the group perform their given concept.

Judging was based on their creativity and understanding.

This is the last activity in which Finoment groups gain some points on their performance which is accumulated in their previous points.
